 IMPORTANT NOTICE *****

The CCV application has been redeveloped. If you had an account on the old CCV application you can access the new application by using your previous username and password. However the following need to be done as soon as you log in:

- Change your password (if required) to meet the new security guidelines
- Change your reminder questions and answers. On top of a predefined list of questions you can now add your own question. Note that this is an important step as you will be asked to answer the chosen questions if you ever forget your username or password in the future. It is recommended to use a question/answer pair that can easily be remembered.
- Verify all your CV data. During the development process CV data was migrated, wherever possible, from the old to the new application. You need to make sure that the data was properly migrated by inspecting each section and field. Any missing or wrongly formatted data will have to be corrected. For your convenience the old CCV application will be available until further notice, for you to retrieve any data at www.ccv-cvc-2004.ca.

Privacy Notice Statement 2013-12-18 12:19 EST

The Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) is committed to respecting the privacy rights of individuals in accordance with the provisions of the Privacy Act and the policies of the government of Canada. If you decide to proceed and register with the Common Curriculum Vitae system (CCV), which is administered by CIHR, and provide certain personal information about you, CIHR will keep and use the information for the purposes that you have authorized.

Each time you submit your CV, you will be asked whether you wish to have CIHR submit your personal information to other institutions as part of your application for funding. If you do, you will be consenting to CIHR making your personal information available to the designated institutions for them to use in evaluating your application. Once the information is successfully forwarded to them, the designated institutions will be responsible for the management and protection of the information that they receive, in accordance with federal and provincial privacy laws.

When submitting your CV for the first time, you will be asked whether you wish to include some of your personal information in provincial and national researcher directories available to the public. More information will be provided at that time when your consent is requested. You will also be able to grant or revoke this consent using the 'Consent' tab at any time.

Finally, from time to time institutions conduct searches to identify candidates for peer review, focus groups or surveys and you will be asked whether you wish to be included in this database that Institutions will be able to

Data Sharing 2013-12-18 12:23 EST

From time to time CCV member organizations conduct searches to identify candidates for peer review, focus groups or surveys. You may consent to share your CV data with those organizations for the purpose of conducting searches or generating anonymous research statistics and reports.

If you consent, your CV information will be transferred to the institution, which will be responsible for its management and protection. Please note that CIHR will not be able to control how the institution uses your personal information and you will have to contact the institution directly if you have any questions about its use. For additional details, please see the Privacy Notice Statement found on the Common CV consent tab.
